Show parents how to help...

Here’s a simple way to send home fresh, upbeat ideas parents can put right to work—every tip and activity is practical and “doable” by most any family.

Parents will find ways to promote:

✓ good behavior, including discipline, motivation, respect, and kindness.
✓ reading skills, from letter recognition and phonemic awareness to vocabulary and comprehension.
✓ math proficiency, including counting, operations, geometry, measurement, and problem solving.
✓ nutrition and fitness, with everyday tips for healthy eating and fun physical activity.

All this for just pennies per family!

Dear Educator,

Parents want to help their children succeed in school, but many aren’t sure how. Our parent involvement newsletters give parents proven, practical advice to promote school success, effective parenting, healthy habits, and positive character traits.

It’s easy for you! These monthly newsletters are a simple way for educators to communicate with today’s busy parents. They are:

- ready to copy, post on your website, or send to parents by email.
- personalized with your school name—and your name, if you like.
- user friendly, in a convenient single-sheet format.
- low cost and take very little time on your part.

Parenting, reading, math, and much more! We offer a wide variety of topics and grade levels to meet your school’s needs. Every subscription is 100% guaranteed—if you aren’t completely satisfied, you may cancel and get all your money back.

Make a difference! Thousands of your colleagues use these unique newsletters to save time and boost parent involvement. You can, too! Just fill out the enclosed Introductory Discount Certificate to get started.

Sincerely,

Marcy Levin-Epstein
Publisher, Resources for Educators

Save up to $81 when you subscribe by April 27.

Here’s how your subscription works:

Every month, September through May, you’ll get a personalized issue ready to send home to parents. You can photocopy and print as many as you need. You can also post your personalized PDF on your school website or email the newsletter to parents. Whichever convenient way you choose for distributing your issues, the cost is minimal—only pennies per family. And that’s a bargain, considering the terrific public relations you’ll receive.

P.S. These newsletters are great tools for parent involvement under Title I. And each one is also available in Spanish!

Biblioburro: A traveling library, which brought books to your neighborhood on the back of a... possible.

Dragons Love Tacos - a book by Adam Rubin about a dragon who gets a bite of spicy salsa, look out! A silly party that turns into a disaster.

The Sixty-Eight Stories - a book by Jeanne Betancourt that includes jokes and advice for the comedy contest between teachers and their families. It covers family problems, jokes, and advice.

Sacagawea - a story about Sacagawea, a Shoshone woman who helped the Lewis and Clark expedition. She learned to use the Shoshone language, a key that lets Jack find a magic key.

Ten True Animal Rescues - a book that reads about a dolphin who stops a shark attack, a cow that helps save a calf, and more. Your child may have heard about dogs saving people. This book reads about real rescues.

Bedtime Is Canceled - a book by Maggie and her brother where they write a note to their parents that reads, "Bedtime is canceled." Somehow, the note blows out the window and lands in a newspaper office. Your child will discover the importance of a regular bedtime routine.
